All The News That's Fit? Probably Not!

November 2002

PC Doesn't Stand for Personal Computer Anymore!

This month's newsletter will start with a new emphasis on political correctness and tolerance for sexual orientation. We now present Pam's Cider vinaigrette, which so impressed Batman and Big A. who declared it was really good, even to those of us who treat salad as a garnish!

Pam's Cider Vinaigrette

- 1 tsp ea. salt and dry mustard
- 1 Tbsp onion juice
- 1/3 c. cider vinegar
- 1 c. salad oil
- 1 Tbsp poppy seed (optional)
- 1 1/2 c. large curd cottage cheese

So its come to this – after games instead of boat races we'll be having bakeoffs. Who can save us from this fate? Perhaps the following email received after last month's newsletter has the answer:

Overheard From Out and About the Country

This new player of yours "IAN," If that is his real name? Is he really South African? Did he tell you he is a Salesman? He played Rugby with us in Vail Colorado. He didn't really play, he was hurt a lot. He did drink a lot of our beer, (the projectile vomiting is true), ate our food and caused problems at the animal shelter.

He has a fetish for wild animals. He will find an animal roaming around and sodomize the poor thing. He doesn't care if it is a dog or a rare wild Lynx, he will try and get some action off it.

There was a Fox that use to hang around our pitch that he befriended just for "The slow times." This is about the time he volunteered at the Animal Shelter. He would go down there and "WALK" the dogs. He is just sick. He also gave the wife of one of our players an "Infection" we all knew it was gonorrhoea. He also knocked up two Daughters of one of our old boys and yes they also got the "infection." Tell him he left his Swedish Penis Enlarger here, if he wants it back he will have to tell me where he put my naked pictures of Queen Elizabeth, I am pissed that he hid them they are very tastefully done - not your usual telephoto crap.

Never, Never go on tour with him all he wants to do is try to get you drunk so he can take you back to the hotel and "Take care of you." Alot of guys on our team had to see the Proctologist because of him; I guess the Swedish Enlarger really works.

As far as him being a Hooker, the only thing he has hooked is his finger into my dog's ass.

Good luck with him and thank you for your time,
Tim Crow
Vail RFC

Please confront him with this and tell him to call me - I want my pictures back.

So maybe there is hope for us after all – if we keep attracting projectile vomiting hookers with a proclivity for small animals, we may not win much, but watch out for the Gurkhas at the after-match!

Gurkha 10's

Speaking of after match – Thank to everyone who helped out at the Gurkha 10's tournament. We didn't have many teams (and have quite a few T Shirts left over), but we had excellent Tri-Tip roast afterwards with some smooth tasting Tetley's kegs. Batman did a great job with all the stuff that was going on: like Riverside scheduling a tourney on the same day – two teams not showing up – womens team issues – fields at different locations. Now that he's got that one under his belt, the next one will be easier (according to certain grey haired coots who've done it since Skip (Mills) was a lad!).

Unfortunately though - the rumor is true. Sheriff Dan was found guilty (in absentia) by a hastily convened kangaroo court, of returning a barely touched keg of Tetleys without giving the boys a decent second chance at it. He was sentenced to provide a replacement keg at a time to be named later.

We had the beer raffle that afternoon and the results were:

_ ton of beer - #1161 Lauren Bloom (a girlfriend of Dan The Trainer)

10 cases - #2208 Dave Nutley (owner of the Brewery – may donate it back to us)

5 cases – #1115 Brian Welsh (Pops' neighbor)

Things that make you go Hmmmmm – Pops sold 2 of the 3 winning tickets (Pops – could it be that I sold a Sh*t load of tickets?) Hmmmmm!?

Results from the tourney were: 1st Camp Pendleton, 2nd Gurkhas A, Plate Gurkhas B. Congratulations to the Marines for winning our tournament for the first time, helped by Phil 'Niles Crane' Hanger playing prop for them all day. It's not a priority to win our own tournament, but to make sure it runs smoothly and that other teams have a good time. We did fine making the final – but the video didn't lie. We are unfit and sloppy in our skills.

In the Works!

But again there's hope for us. Greg Bartelt has been helping us at practice recently and our esteemed committee are going to do their best to keep him with us. We might have to have the Martinez brothers pay him a visit if he doesn't! The editor has spoken to the club patriarch (Pops) and the Gibbster, and both of them are more than happy to absorb the new knowledge Greg brings to us. Welcome Greg.

High School

RBHS Barbarians had a car wash last weekend and raised about $200. George Kimura has taken over from John as head coach, with John remaining as assistant coach.

There was a meeting last Monday where we found out Torrey Pines has about 20 kids coming out to play touch rugby on Sundays, and St Augustines is about to form a club. So the plan is to have them play some 7's up to the new year and see what 15 a side teams we can form then. Hopefully we'll have a team at Escondido HS after football season is finished.

SDSU vs Gurkhas Recap

SDSU showed up with a young and somewhat inexperienced side, but for what they lacked in experience they made up for with solid hitting and fitness. The Gurkhas dominated most of the action and scoring with great pick and gos and set pieces by the forwards. The backs managed to string out the defense after the set pieces like we had been working on in practice which was encouraging to see. Score was 26-7 for the first side match. A second match consisting of 20 minute halves was also played and won by the Gurkhas. 21-0 Clint Nelson was singled out as the player of the game but the "Swoop" mysteriously disappeared from the piss up, hmm who's girlfriend was he working on I wonder? The Mutant Ninja Turtle Matty was seen slicing through the SDSU defense off a penalty play, but then disappeared into the shadows where a Woodchucking Prop formerly of the Gurkhas vomited all over him turning him into "Chunky Turtle Soup"! Word also has it there was a Baracuda sighting at the after party!! Does the zoo have open door policy now? If so a picture of Clay and Ian should be posted with rewards!

Upcoming Events

This weekend the 16th, we travel to Pasadena to play Pasadena and the OC Bucks in a round robin preseason fixture. All welcome to come, watch and participate in after match festivities.

Nov 23rd is the Unicorns Tournament in Huntington Beach.

Dec 7 sees us at Back Bay swimming with the Sharks.

On the 14th we travel back to Pasadena for the First Annual 15's Tourney hosted by none other than, yup you guessed it Pasadena Rugby Club.

The last preseason fixture we have scheduled is another round robin format with HB Unicorns and another team yet to be determined.

Opening day is at home against a Very Good team from San Fernando Valley on January 11th.
